

...and a few by Micheal McCall

There once was a girl named Aimee.
Who went for a dip in the sea.
In this case the pressure outside was high,
so she let out a sigh,
because she had increased her FRC

There once was a man for Yosemite. (pronounced yo-se-might)
Who went for a dip one night.
At 50 metres she ceased,
But not knowing her nitrogen pressure had increased,
she tried to make friends with a Great White!!!

There once was a man from the West End
Who was suffering from the bends
To be cool he had ascended faster than norm, causing nitrogen bubbles to form,
and now he's in the hospital with no friends!!!